Call Bill Dickinson: 317-966-7313 or Amy Wortman: 317-435-5471

Wolf's trained and experienced crews are available 24/7/365 for our client's rapid response needs. Whether for an on-scene crash investigation and documentation; an EDR (event data recorder) download (imaging); or for evidence retrieval, documentation and preservation, we understand that emergencies cannot always wait for more convenient hours.

We are available to act promptly to preserve evidence. We possess the knowledge and resources to ensure evidence is preserved for immediate or future analysis.

Wolf uses established evidence protocols for collection, processing and storage. We have dedicated and secure evidence storage facilities.

The background image shows an outdoor accident scene on a paved road. In the foreground, a person in a bright green jacket stands with their back to the camera, holding a surveying instrument. In the middle ground, several firefighters in full gear are gathered around a red fire truck. To the right, the rear of another fire truck is visible. In the background, a car is involved in a crash, with its front end crumpled and partially obscured by debris. The scene is set in a rural or semi-rural area with trees and a cloudy sky.
